"The black riots weren't the foremost problem. American real estate laws. That's the real equation."